WealthGrid Venture Studio define themselves as “We are the leadership advisors for startups, and creating ours as well”.

WealthGrid is one of the few venture studios operating in Egypt. Based in Cairo and founded in 2022, it focuses on building and investing in startups from the ground up, often at the pre-seed stage.

WealthGrid has backed early-stage ventures such as:

- I-Investigate – a startup funded in a pre-seed round in March 2022.
- Dajin-Platform – another pre-seed investment from May 2021.

These investments reflect WealthGrid’s commitment to idea-stage innovation, especially in tech-driven and scalable models.

Unlike traditional VCs, venture studios like WealthGrid take a more hands-on role in shaping business models, assembling founding teams, and accelerating product-market fit.

Alex Angels, also known as the Alexandria Angels Network is a cornerstone of Egypt's early-stage investment ecosystem, especially outside Cairo.

Founded in 2016 by entrepreneur Tarek El-Kady, the network was created to decentralize startup funding and empower innovation beyond Cairo. It brings together high-net-worth individuals and seasoned professionals who invest in early-stage ventures, offering not just capital but strategic mentorship and ecosystem access.

Alex Angels is especially committed to supporting youth-led and impact-driven startups across Egypt and the broader MENA region.

The network has played a vital role in shaping Egypt's entrepreneurial landscape, backing over 30 startups across sectors like IoT, logistics, edtech, and e-commerce.

Through pitch events, investor roundtables, and partnerships with regional funds, Alex Angels enhanced a collaborative investment culture. Its involvement in initiatives like the Orange Corners Innovation Fund and co-investment syndicates positions it as a strategic connector between local talent and global opportunity.

The disadvantage of it is the poorness of their website.

The Cairo Angels—now rebranded as Acasia Group—was originally founded in 2011, making it Egypt’s first formal angel investment network

It played a pioneering role in supporting early-stage startups across Egypt and the broader MENA region.

With a mission to empower entrepreneurs through capital, mentorship, and strategic guidance, the network quickly became a cornerstone of Egypt’s innovation ecosystem. It invested in a wide range of sectors—from fintech and health tech to e-commerce—typically offering ticket sizes between EGP 250K and 2M.

Cairo Angels also cultivated a strong community of investors and founders, hosting pitch events and workshops that bridged the gap between ideas and execution.

In 2022, Cairo Angels rebranded as Acasia Group, signalling a strategic evolution into a pan-African impact platform. Under this new identity, Acasia expanded its scope to include three pillars: Acasia Ventures (a VC arm), Acasia Impact (focused on social and environmental initiatives), and Acasia Angels (continuing the angel investment legacy).

At Investia, our journey began with a simple yet powerful belief: that long-term value is best created when financial capital is paired with entrepreneurial spirit. What started as the investment arm of our own family office has grown—step by step, year by year—into a trusted partner for family holdings, corporates, and forward-looking investors across Egypt. Over the past four decades, I’ve had the privilege of witnessing Egypt’s entrepreneurial landscape evolve—and of walking alongside founders, business leaders, and next-generation visionaries as they build, transform, and reimagine.

From early venture capital investments to strategic advisory and structured financing, our work has always been about more than capital—it has been about enabling dreams, building bridges, and creating resilient, sustainable models for the future.

Our mission at Investia has never been more relevant. In a world of rapid change and limitless possibility, we stand committed to building tailored investment vehicles, empowering growth-stage businesses, and supporting family enterprises as they transition to the next level. We do this not only with financial tools, but with deep partnership, shared purpose, and a long-term view.

Our CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) came out of our deep belief in the positive impact we’re able to make, and our sense of responsibility towards the Egyptian society. We owe it to Egypt and certainly to those who made and continue to make it what it is. A unique, prosperous place that will always be as strong as its people. Taking pride in this brings essential meaning to what we do.

We’re already in the business of teaming up with exceptional individuals to support, guide, and empower them to reach a better future. ^[L]_{SEP} We hope to continue achieving this in areas where it matters the most.
